4 OUTLET POWER BLOCK WITH RCBO PROTECTION

The Hills Antenna 4 Outlet Power Block with RCBO Protection is a highly efficient and safety-oriented electrical distribution solution, designed for environments where protection against electrical hazards is critical. Equipped with a Residual Current Breaker with Overload (RCBO), this power block offers dual protection by detecting and disconnecting power in the event of current imbalances (eg. leakage to earth), overload conditions, or short circuits. This ensures the prevention of electrical shocks, equipment damage and potential fire hazards.

With a maximum current rating of 10A, this power block allows for the safe operation of connected devices, up to four separate outlets. The RCBO provides protection in accordance with international electrical safety standards, offering an additional layer of safety when used in residential, commercial or industrial environments.

The unit features a 2m heavy duty power cord, capable of withstanding high mechanical stress and designed for continuous power delivery. It's durable construction makes it suitable for use in demanding environments with standard Australian electrical installations (240V AC, 50Hz).

- Ideal for residential, commercial, and industrial situations
